Arlington (April 23, 2015) – Eagle Creek families packed the school for the 2nd Annual Reading Carnival held just before spring break. Librarian, Ms. Arnold, received a grant to obtain one free, brand new book for each student who attended the carnival. Outside there was a ball toss game and fun kid-sized cars for the students to sit in. There were carnival activities for the children in each wing of the school. Children and parents moved from face painting to cakewalks to bouncy houses throughout the well-attended event. Children received tokens for winning games and then had the pleasure of going to the prize room to pick out their trinkets.

Of course, the library was open and filled with wonderful reading materials families could purchase to add to their home book collections. One of the most popular activities was the room set aside where children could read to animals trained in the Reading for Rover program.

Cotton candy and snow cones made a huge hit with kids too!
